

Edward Goldberg

Ed Goldberg is an educator and advocate for better school climate. He is particularly interested in the social and emotional dynamics of human development that serve as the foundation to academic instruction and successful achievement. He is currently a member of the Schools Committee of the American Psychoanalytic Association, and has worked with organizations such as the Lower Merion School District and the Delaware Valley Association of Young Children. He has also been a member of the West Philadelphia Alliance for Children as a literacy instructor. Previously, Ed served as the President of a family business. Ed has a Masters from the Graduate School of Education at the University of Pennsylvania and a BA from Franklin and Marshall College.