

Tracy E. Smith

Experienced educational leader focused on the successful integration of technology in the classroom and to enhance overall district operations. Strong background in both instructional and information technologies. Specialties: Team building, project management, technology integration, budgeting, strategic planning, communication, presentations on a wide range of technologies.

For the last 8 years I have served at Parkland School District, located in the suburbs of Allentown, PA, starting as the Director of Technology and moving to my current role as Assistant to the Superintendent for Operations in 2011.

Prior to joining Parkland, I worked as the Director of Educational Technology at Nazareth Area School District. I began my career in education as a Computer Science teacher in the Pleasant Valley School District.

I currently reside in Macungie, PA with my husband, Bruce (also an educator). We have one son, James, who lives in Houston, TX.