

Anthony Saraceno

Anthony J. Saraceno is a communications specialist at the Chester County Intermediate Unit (CCIU) where he supports communication initiatives for the Career, Technical & Customized Education Division of the CCIU, in addition to supporting the overall communication efforts of the organization. Prior to his work at the CCIU, Saraceno earned a Master of Arts in Communication from Villanova University, which he attended on a scholarship as a graduate assistant for the Department of Communication. While a graduate student, Saraceno presented original academic work at both national and international communication conferences. Before earning his M.A., Saraceno was a member of the Millersville University of Pennsylvania class of 2014 where he received a Bachelor's of Science in Speech Communication with an option in public relations. In addition to earning three minors; in philosophy, history, and print media studies, Saraceno completed the Honors College program at Millersville and graduated Summa Cum Laude. While a student at Millersville, Saraceno spent six months in 2012 studying abroad at the University of Malta. Saraceno is an Eagle Scout and enjoys volunteering with Special Olympics of Pennsylvania, in which his youngest sister competes as an athlete.
